Art in the news

'Our Place in Space'

The artist Oliver Jeffers and the scientist Stephen Smartt have designed an amazing large-scale recreation of the solar system brought down to Earth. 'Our Place on Earth' is a 10-kilometer sculpture trail, which is popping up this year in Northern Island and Cambridge. 'You can explore the solar system from anywhere via an interactive augmented-reality app and an exciting programme of digital events and learning activities, open to everyone and entirely free'.

Tate Modern Cake Celebrations

The Tate Modern was opened twenty-two years ago on the South Bank of the River Thames. To celebrate this anniversary and create more memories, baker and Great British Bake-Off Finalist Crystelle Pereria delivered her bespoke lemony birthday cake to the Tate as a thank you to the staff, members, visitors and supporters for keeping the gallery open!

Crystelle Pereria's lemon cake was inspired by Lubaina Himid's painting titled 'Slice Ten Lemons' 2020 (Collection of Eleanor and Bobby Cayre, New York. Courtesy Hollybush Gardens).

Mindfulness Activity

"Art is a natural way to practice mindfulness. The colours, textures, and sounds of creating pull us into the moment."

-Amy Maricle, Art Therapist.

Draw a Mandala!

You can design a mandala to symbolise a state of mind that you would like to achieve. Many different cultures around the world use mandalas in their spiritual practices! Remember to take time out for yourself! Being creative is a great way to reduce stress and move away from your to do list for a period of time.
